	Nine months ended 31 December 2011		Year ended 31 December 2012		Year ending 31 December 2013		Year ending 31 December 2014	Year ending 31 December 2015	Year ending 31 December 2016

It is expected that the supply of copper and laminates to the Hallgain Group for the year ending 31 December 2014 may be higher than the amount in 2013 in light of the Hallgain Group's proposed increment of production capacity in 2014. On the basis that the amount of copper and laminates to be supplied to the Hallgain Group in 2014 will be HK$1,200,000,000 and there will be an annual growth of 10%, the KBC Directors and the KBL Directors (other than the respective INEDs who will give their views after considering the opinion from the independent financial adviser) are of the view that the Proposed Annual Caps for the New KBL Supply Framework Agreement are fair and reasonable.

The amount of the annual cap for the Existing KBL Purchase Framework Agreement to be utilised for the year ending 31 December 2013 is estimated to be approximately HKD230,750,000, representing an increase of approximately 43% from the actual amount utilised in 2012. Having considered the expected growth in production and sales, expected increase in demand, expected increase in production capacity of the KBL Group, and taking into consideration the estimated increase in the price for the sale of materials such as drill bits and machineries by the Hallgain Group for each of the financial years ending 31 December 2014, 2015 and 2016, and on the assumption that there will be an annual increase of approximately 45% in each of 2014, 2015 and 2016 in respect of the purchase of materials such as drill bits and machineries from the Hallgain Group, the KBC Directors and the KBL Directors (other than the respective INEDs who will give their views after considering the opinion from the independent financial adviser) are of the view that the Proposed Annual Caps for the New KBL Purchase Framework Agreement are fair and reasonable.

REASONS FOR AND BENEFITS OF ENTERING INTO THE NEW CONTINUING CONNECTED TRANSACTION AGREEMENTS

The KBC Group is engaged in, among other things, the manufacturing and sale of PCBs, which require materials such as copper balls and drill bits as a component for its production. The KBL Group is engaged in, among other things, the manufacturing and sale of laminates and related products and the provision of drilling services of laminates, which require materials such as drill bits and specific machineries as a component for its production. The Hallgain Group is engaged in, among other things, the manufacturing and sale of copper balls, drill bits and machineries.

Pursuant to the New KBC Purchase Framework Agreement, the Hallgain Group shall produce and supply materials such as copper balls and drill bits to the KBC Group. In order to satisfy the demand of the KBC Group for materials such as copper balls, the Hallgain Group shall purchase copper for the production of copper balls for its sale to the KBC Group. The provision of copper and laminates by the KBL Group to the Hallgain Group under the New KBL Supply Framework Agreement not only facilitates the KBL Group to distribute and sell its copper and laminates, thereby increasing the sales and revenue of the KBL Group, it also secures a steady supply of copper and laminates to the Hallgain Group. A reliable supply of materials such as copper balls and drill bits by the Hallgain Group to the KBC Group can also facilitate the KBC Group's production of PCBs. The KBC Group and the KBL Group consider that the Hallgain Group is a reliable business co-operation partner and such co-operation is beneficial to the business of the KBC Group and the KBL Group, respectively.

The KBL Group has been continuously expanding its laminates business. The KBL Group anticipates that more materials such as drill bits and machineries for the manufacture of laminates will be required for it to further expand its business. Taking into account a range of factors including the reduction in transportation costs, the quality and the price of the machineries manufactured by the Hallgain Group for the production of laminates, the KBL Group considers that the purchase of materials such as drill bits and machineries under the New KBL Purchase Framework Agreement is necessary to facilitate its expansion plan and will improve the competitiveness and the quality of the laminates manufactured by the KBL Group.

The supply of copper and laminates and purchases of copper balls, drill bits and machineries contemplated under the respective agreements are to be of a recurrent revenue nature to be occurred on a regular and continuing basis in the ordinary and usual course of business of the KBC Group and the KBL Group respectively. The agreements provide a framework for the supplies of copper and laminates by the KBL Group to the Hallgain Group from time to time on a non-exclusive basis and the purchase of materials such as copper balls, drill bits and machineries by the KBC Group and the KBL Group from the Hallgain Group respectively from time to time on a non-exclusive basis and regulate the future possible business relationship among the KBC Group, the KBL Group and the Hallgain Group in relation to the transactions under the agreements.

In light of the above, the KBC Directors (other than the INEDs who will give their views after considering the opinion from the independent financial adviser) are of the view that the New Continuing Connected Transaction Agreements are on normal commercial terms which are fair and reasonable and in the interests of KBC and the KBC Shareholders as a whole. The KBL Directors (other than the INEDs who will give their views after considering the opinion from the independent financial adviser) are of the view that the New KBL Supply Framework Agreement and the New KBL Purchase Framework Agreement are on normal commercial terms which are fair and reasonable and in the interests of KBL and the KBL Shareholders as a whole. The terms of the agreements were arrived at after arm's length negotiation between the relevant parties.
